THE ARCHAEOLOGY OF WWII IN BRECON STOREY ARMS ANTI INVASION DEFENCES

ARCHAEOLOGICAL FIELD SURVEY

13, 14, 15 and 16 February, 2014

In 1941 the Storey Arms anti invasion defences were constructed to prevent a Nazi invasion of the UK from a Welsh approach. we now need your help to record this nationally important relic.

The site contains a complex network of military defences as well as a wealth of other archaeology including the ruinous remains of a 19th coaching house. Volunteers are needed to help archaeologists record the archaeological remains scattered across the site.

By volunteering you will receive professional training in conducting archaeological surveys including condition monitoring and topographical surveys.
